Over 77,000 luminaires from the Zumtobel Group for the new Tottenham Hotspur Stadium

London, UK | Dornbirn, Austria – The Zumtobel Group Lighting Brands, acdc, Thorn and Zumtobel have installed over 77,000 luminaires throughout the brandnew Tottenham Hotspur stadium. The recently opened stadium is not just for football – it has been designed to host National Football League (NFL) games, concerts and other major events, which meant meeting the requirements of a multi-purpose venue. Zumtobel Group has delivered one of the most comprehensive offerings available in today's lighting industry.

When Tottenham Hotspur was seeking a lighting partner for the creation of its world class 120,000sqm, 62,062 seater iconic new stadium, the international lighting company Zumtobel Group took up the challenge and was finally chosen as the Club's lighting partner based on their expertise combined with a fully comprehensive range of luminaires and the ability to provide the modern lighting solution the project required.

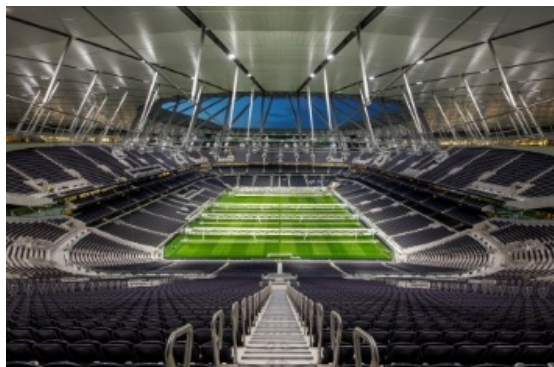

Zumtobel Group came up with a solution based on a well-lit, comfortable and safe environment for players, employees and visitors to the stadium, which also included the project management and execution. The areas of illumination included player facilities, seating bowl, circulation concourse and the extensive façade.

Zumtobel Group and Tottenham Hotspur have created a winning combination with a shared vision of excellence, with solutions that are tailored to the success of their objectives.

Alfred Felder, CEO Zumtobel Group, comments, *"We are proud to be partnering with Tottenham Hotspur, one of the world's top football clubs, to provide lighting solutions for the new, iconic Tottenham Hotspur Stadium.
